

In regard to CG Docket No. 02-278, it is inexcusable that a law such as the No-Call law is being threatened. There is absolutely no reason for altering the do-not-call list in any way with regard to consumers. The FCC should not give in to intense lobbying by sectors such as long distance phone companies as well as credit card company. I plead that the FCC listen to the overwhelmingly amount of people who use the list and want it to remain strong.
